For alternative transportation options, please refer to the following information:

You can download these maps from the App Store, Android Store, or Google Play.

AMap Global: this is a navigation application; it serves as an equivalent to Google Maps for your navigation needs in China.

DiDi: Ride Hailing in China: this is a ride-hailing service app in China, it functions similarly to Uber for your transportation needs.

Note: DiDi primarily utilizes Alipay and WeChat Pay for transactions. International visitors should be aware that linking an international credit card may be necessary or that carrying cash is advisable, as some drivers may accept cash payments.

Important Note:

For those who wish to avoid potential inconveniences associated with the ride-hailing application, please consult the information about taxi by cash payment provided below.

For arrivals on April 8th, volunteers wearing blue vests marked 'WCRT 2025' will be available at both airports to provide transportation assistance from 10:00 AM to 8:00 PM.
